

Dr. Marilou Ioakimidis is an Associate Professor in the Department of Business Administration at National and Kapodistrian University of Athens.

Prior to that, she served as faculty member (Assistant Professor) at the University of Peloponnese, Department of Economics, Visiting Professor at National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Department of Economics (2006 – today), and Vice President (vice Rector) of the Hellenic Open University.

She holds a BSc in Economics from the University of Piraeus, Department of Economics (Greece), an MA in Industrial Relations and Organisational Behaviour, from the University of Warwick (UK), and a Ph.D. (Hons) in Economics and Management of Human Resources and Education.

From 2013-2021 she was the Director of National – International Research at the “Hellenic Institute of Economics of Education and Life Long Learning, Research and Innovation”. From 2022 she is a board member at the same Institution as well as Head of the Documentation Center. She is also a visiting professor – instructor in many postgraduate programmes (University of Piraeus, Harokopio University, etc). Her research interests are focused mainly on Human Resource Management, Economics of Human Resources, Education, technology and new forms of education, and lifelong learning, e-learning.

Her academic work has been published in well-known scientific journals (British Journal of Management, International Journal of Finance and Economics, B.E. Journal of Economic Analysis and Policy) as well as UNESCO and the Higher Education Academy of the UK.